SECTION C: READING COMPREHENSION (10 MARKS)

Read the following passage carefully and answer all the questions on it. Use correct English sentences, as far as possible that follow using your own words as far as possible. Use your own words.

Nowadays, most people have failed in one vital aspect of their lives in that they have mistaken their body colour for beauty. People, especially women think that to look beautiful means extinguishing their natural, black colour. This has made them indulge in the usage of sophisticated cosmetics. These users should only reflect a little and ponder over the effects these products have on their bodies.

Cosmetics remove the natural black pigment in the body. This black pigment is resistant to adverse conditions and gives strength to the flesh, thus if one of these users is operated upon or sustains an injury, it would be difficult to stitch the spot or the wound to heal since the pigment is destroyed. The product also leads to the gradual deformation of various parts of the body so that the individual soon develops fallen jaws, twisted face, and dark areas around the eyes. This is a gradual process; the person finally realizes that it is too late to take precautions.

In our African society this problem can be solved by educating the population about the various effects. The greater part of the educated population are those promoting the usage of these products. At this point, I begin to wonder what will become of the illiterate population who strongly believe in "cream" as they call it.

Should we close down our cosmetic industries? The answer is no, beneficial to the producers, but also to the whole country.

The only possible solution to this problem will be for the government to introduce new legislation concerning the producers and the quality and quantity of cosmetics produced. The government should also educate the population about the effects of these products. Self-education and self discipline will also be a vital tool in solving this problem.
